The New York Hereford Breeders Ray Russell Memorial Futurity

Overview: Mr. Raymond Russell was a long-time Hereford breeder and enthusiast from Groton, New York. He was very passionate about the Hereford breed, and possessed a strong desire to continually improve his breeding cattle with each and every generation. Mr. Russell believed that the careful analysis of both phenotypic and genotypic characteristics was essential to the improvement of the Hereford breed. Both Ray and his wife Irene found much gratitude and satisfaction in exhibiting their bred and owned cattle at local, regional and State wide shows, and took immense pride in showing the results of their breeding decisions.

Purpose: The purpose of the NYHB Futurity is to create a breeder-friendly competitive exhibition where the breeders can show and display results of their cattle breeding decisions and management practices. The exhibition will integrate both phenotype and genotype in the selection of the annual Ray Russell Memorial Futurity winner. The winner shall receive a financial payment consisting of 90% of the Futurity fund collected. The remaining 10% will be retained by the NYHB to offset the costs of conducting this activity.

Procedures: The basis of the NYHB Futurity is to nominate the planned breeding of any animal before it is born. The breeder, or owner of the nominated pregnancy will then have several opportunities to keep their animal involved with the competition by submitting the outlined information and financial payment by the due dates specified in the rules section of this document.

These are the three “stages” of Futurity involvement. These Stages are:

Stage 1 - Pregnancy nomination. Submit proof of dam ownership, breeding information, and $10.00 nomination fee.

Stage 2 - Calf verification. Submit calf registration number issued by AHA, and parent verification resulting from DNA submission to the AHA, and $20.00 stage fee.

Stage 3 - Yearling Activation - submit THR performance information, including weaning weight, yearling weight, performance ratios and $20.00 stage fee.

Exhibitors of the nominated pregnancy will then have up to two opportunities to exhibit their Futurity nominations. Nominations may be show as calves, and may also be show as yearlings, as long as the necessary requirements of involvement are met.

There will be two divisions of competition which will be heifers and bulls.

Rules and General Procedures
